Thousands Expected To Attend Roth's Grand Opening Today

Torrance's one-half million dollar market, Roth's Super Market, opens its doors at 9 o'clock this morning for its Grand Opening. Located at 1321 Post Avenue, between S. A. and Cravens Avenues, Roth's the largest food market in Torrance, will celebrate its opening by giving away novelties for children, and balloons.

This morning's grand opening follows a preview opening of Tuesday, August 1.

C. J. Bohannon, manager, stated that Roth's market is the most complete in Torrance, with one of the finest produce departments in Southern California, managed by Wally Davenport. There are also more than 50 aisle sections of wide varieties and selections of groceries and canned goods. It is possible, as Bohannon says, to be able to offer these vast and wide assortments of commodities to the public at reasonable prices because Roth's of which this Torrance market is one of eight in Southern California, can do its buying in car-loads.

Some of the outstanding features of the market are seven check stands of spotless stainless steel, three frozen food cabinets and one ice cream cabinet, and good fluorescent lighting. A few highlights of convenience are the spacious aisles for shopping, the neatly labeled and arranged stock shelves visible from any point of the room, saving time and energy in shopping. There are, for the customer's convenience, eight new courtesy carts which can be used to take the purchases to the car, as well as new carry baskets.

DELICATESSEN
A specialty, other than the bakery department, for which baked goods, are prepared and wrapped exclusively for delivery to Roth's markets only, is the delicatessen department. Ed Leachman, manager of the delicatessen department, stated that in the long 240 square foot delicatessen bar will be featured imported cheeses from Switzerland, France and Norway, including Norwegian goat cheese, and Swiss green cheese.

Other features of the store include a liquor department of which Ed Vendelli is the manager; the meat department, running nearly the full length of the back of the store, and carrying the finest cuts of top grade meats, as well as poultry and fish. The manager of the meat department is Frank Johnson. Besides the grocery sections, there are sections of sundries and hardware.

PARKING
Another added convenience are the spacious acres of parking in the rear of the market. Able to accommodate 300 autos, the Roth's parking area is the largest free parking area in Torrance.

Offering demonstrations to the public this weekend, Roth's market will be opened all day Sundays.
